Glendale Generates $1.3 Million in Successful Sales Tax Amnesty Program

The city of Glendale's first-ever city sales tax amnesty program generated $1.3 million in 38 days. Business owners and landlords were able to pay delinquent sales tax and license fees and have all penalties, prior delinquent license fees, interest and related building permit penalties waived.

A total of 618 businesses and landlords took advantage of the program.

Parks & Recreation Master Plan Online Survey. Residents are encouraged to provide feedback on future parks and recreation facilities and services by participating in an online survey as part of an update to Glendale's Parks and Recreation Master Plan.

Input from residents, local interest groups, community organizations, businesses and public officials will be critical in helping to establish priorities for current and future parks and recreation services, programs and facilities offered within the city of Glendale. Many changes have occurred since the 2002 Glendale Parks and Recreation Master Plan was adopted. The online survey is part of an update and a 10-month process that will result in a detailed "road map" to identify community priorities and outline a plan of action.

The survey is provided for residents to express their opinions on the department, and on whether they think the facilities and current programs are meeting their needs.

Glendale residents are encouraged to take the brief online survey at <http://www.glendaleaz.com/ParksandRecreation/> and keep informed on the status of the master plan update process.

The deadline to complete the online survey is May 31. For more information, call the Parks and Recreation Department at (623) 930-2820.

Special Permit "101" Training for Residents. Spring remodeling is in the air, especially for Glendale residents. The Building Safety Department is noticing a remodeling permit boom, which has resulted in a 45 percent increase in residential permits and 154 percent increase in solar permits.

To help raise awareness on the permit process and also celebrate Building Safety Month, Glendale's Building Safety Department is offering a special permit "101" class to teach residents how to get a permit for their construction project; an explanation of why permits are necessary; how to fill out the required paperwork; and what the possible costs are associated with these projects.

The class is Wednesday, May 26, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. at Glendale City Hall, second floor, room 2C, 5850 W. Glendale Ave. There is no cost and parking is available in the adjacent garage. To reserve a spot in the class, call (623) 930-2800.

Instructors Adam Venetis and Randy Huggins with Building Safety will educate homeowners about when a permit is necessary.

For more information on the free permit class or general information on how to obtain a building permit, click here or call (623) 930-2800.

Sewer Appeal Process and Rate Schedules. Each year in May, your sewer charge is adjusted based on your actual water usage billed for the winter months of January, February and March. Although each customer has a water meter to determine water consumption, there is no meter to measure how many gallons each customer sends into the sewer system. Summer Band Concerts. A long-held city tradition continues as the Glendale Summer Band kicks off its 44th season June 3 in downtown Glendale.

Presented by Glendale's Office of Special Events, the concerts take place each Thursday at 8 p.m., in the Murphy Park amphitheater, located at 59th and Glendale avenues. Music lovers of all ages will be entertained by this community band of approximately 100 musicians with its renditions of marches, ballads and show tunes.

The series will feature two special performances: a special Centennial-themed concert on June 17 to celebrate the city's 100th anniversary, and a patriotic program on July 1 in celebration of Independence Day.
